Atlanta – Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger announced that his office is debuting a new “I Voted” sticker available to Georgia voters during the 2026 General Election. Renowned Georgia artist Steve Penley of Penley Art Co. created the exclusive design.

“We are excited to debut this one-of-a-kind sticker by renowned artist Steve Penley,” said Secretary Raffensperger. “Voting is one of the easiest ways Georgians can make their voices heard, and this sticker gives voters a fun way to celebrate participating in democracy. I hope Georgians will wear the sticker proudly and encourage their friends and family to do the same.”

Five million stickers featuring the unique design have been printed and will be distributed to all 159 counties across Georgia. Voters can get the stickers when early voting starts on October 13.

“Art has always been a powerful way to celebrate what makes Georgia special, and I’m honored to create a design that Georgians can take home with them from polls,” said Steve Penley, founder of Penley Art Co. “The “I Voted” sticker is a simple symbol, but it represents something important: that you showed up to make your voice heard.”
